

Abstract

2 A novel probe block assembly which independently floats multiple probe blocks in a single frame is presented. The independently floating 4 probe blocks allow multiple probes to align independently with respective multiple mating features on a device under test. The use of a single frame 6 allows multiple insertion probe testing via one actuation motion.